To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to recommend Sophia Vincent for any future academic, professional, or service oriented projects she may pursue. Sophia has been a student in my environmental science and personal finance classes over the past year. During that time, she has shown a great regard for learning, and new experiences.

Sophia has spent many years learning about our school mascot, the Sturgeon. When our class made the trip to a local science facility, it was unsurprising to hear that she already knew one of the leads of the project. She has spent lots of time outside of our classroom exploring opportunities that interest her. This shows her unique perspective and general outgoingness.

Another remarkable aspect of Sophia is her ability to lead her peers. Her class was given 6 weeks to create a product that would improve the quality of life for a native “charismatic species”. I watched as Sophia guided her group throughout the project. She demonstrated quality leadership by giving her peers support when they were struggling, as well as encouraging them to take the lead when they felt comfortable.

Sophia is thoughtful, driven, and passionate about making a difference. She would be a valuable asset to any organization or academic program she joins in the future.

Thank you,
